source listing for a new Chip-8 game "Get it Together" is also shown, following the above format. The Sample Program will be referred to in these sections along with the above Format Example, though the game itself will remain a mystery until later.

I B. THE SOURCE

I've always said I wish I had written "The Source" by James Michener, and I could not resist using the title. (At no risk, by the way, titles may not be copyrighted. Just think of the lawyer fees BYTE would be paying if they could!)

COMMENTS

The ability to enter and store comments on tape along with your programs greatly increases their legibility. Chip-8 Assembler-3 allows comments to be entered in two different ways.

1)If a semicolon (;) is entered at position #1 on any line, the next 15 characters will be ignored by the assembler. Each line must begin with a semicolon in position #1 if it is intended as a comment line.
Line #2 in the Format Example is a comment line.